The Quaker Penal Reform Group

warmly invites friends and interested participants to join their upcoming seminar that will offer timely, thoughtful and inspiring discussions around criminal justice. Quakers have a distinguished history of advocating for penal reform to influence government policies that will reshape the criminal justice system to be more safe, humane and effective.

This seminar will contribute to broader efforts and discussions for the Compassion Prison Project, by addressing trauma within communities and incarcerated populations.

Registered participants will benefit from presentations by Quakers and others with direct experience in the criminal justice sector.

Alongside informed reflection, the seminar will offer opportunities for fellowship - including time to explore the property and attend an evening film presentation.

WHAT TO EXPECT

Presentations will include

From Trauma to Transformation

Dr Kyle van de Bittner shares the journey of bringing the Compassion Prison Project to Aotearoa, and the lessons learned about the power of trauma-informed approaches to foster healing and lasting change.

A Quaker View of Penal Reform

Murray Short will explore how Quaker theology informs particular approaches to penal policy.

Where Angels Fear to Tread: rediscovering theological roots in restorative justice

Sande Ramage raises the often-marginalised territory of spirituality and religion, wonders about remorse and forgiveness and if facilitation could be re-envisioned by seeing these complex states through theological or spiritual lenses.

We encourage you to register and join this valuable opportunity to connect, learn, and contribute to deeper consideration of the challenges and possibilities within the contemporary criminal justice system.

Register now to secure your place and be part of this important conversation.
